Adam: Hi Emily? How's life?

Emily: Hello, Adam. It's great, actually. We've just moved to our new house – my parents have been building it for almost three years.

Adam: Awesome! Tell me about it! Do you finally have your own room? I remember how much you disliked sharing it with your sister.

Emily: I have my own room, and even my own bathroom. You know, after all those fights my dad decided that each bedroom would have a bathroom next to it. And now we don't have to argue about long showers every morning.

Adam: Sounds great. What about getting to school? You now live in the countryside, don't you?

Emily: Yes, but it's OK, because my parents drive to work every morning and they give me a lift to school. When I lived in my old flat, I went to school by bus and it took me just as much time.

Adam: So, what's the best thing about the new place?

Emily: It's definitely the view of the forest from my bedroom window. It's so beautiful in the evening. I take lots of photos, but I think you should come round one day and see it for yourself.

Adam: That's an excellent idea.

I had many great teachers, but my Spanish teacher was the best. We all enjoyed her classes because we were never sure what to expect. I think one of the most memorable moments was when she taught us about different kinds of food and she organized a lesson in a restaurant. A professional chef showed us how to cook paella, and I still use the same recipe when I cook it at home for my family.

Wypowiedź 2

My whole class didn't really like Mr Smith because he was so demanding. Now I know that he wanted us to study so much because very often you just have to know things, and there's no time to check them on the Internet. I work with a lot of patients every day: children, teenagers, adults, and they come to see me with various illnesses. Very often I have to make very quick decisions which influence their health or even their life, and without the knowledge and the attitude I learnt from Mr Smith, my life would be even more stressful.

Wypowiedź 3

It was a long time ago, but I still remember it as if it was yesterday. Ms Timberlake had a fantastic lesson about ancient Egypt, and she prepared a presentation about the pyramids. I was never a big fan of history, but at that moment she definitely got my attention. After that class, I stayed longer to talk to my teacher and ask her more questions. I know she was surprised, but what she doesn't know is that because of her I decided to work as an archaeologist and that next month I'm going on a research trip to Peru.

Wypowiedź 4

We've all had memorable teachers or at least lessons that we will remember for a long time. I would like you to send in your stories of how the teachers you had influenced your choice of profession, made you a different person or simply taught you something that you will never forget. When everybody sends in their stories, we'll put together a blog called "Important Influences".

Tekst 1

I can't believe my own luck. Every day, a lot of people want to make their dreams come true, and only a few succeed. Some time ago I saw an announcement in a music magazine that my favourite band offered their fans a chance to win a photo session with them. I sent my application, not really thinking I would be selected. Last week I got a reply from their manager, and she said that they'd chosen somebody else for the photo, but also asked me if I would like to meet the band and appear in their new video. All my friends think it's like winning a lottery, and I think that's true.

Tekst 2

This time next week I'll be visiting the most beautiful places on our planet. I've been working for my company for 10 years and they've decided to pay for a two-week tour of New Zealand. I've been into photography since high school, and last Christmas my family got me this fantastic camera. Obviously, I'm quite excited and I think that when I come back, I'll finally start that travel blog I've always wanted to have.

Tekst 3

Mandy: Hi, Marcel. How're things?

Marcel: Hello, Mandy. I'm looking for a flat to rent.

Mandy: Why? Your present flat is so great – big, with a fantastic view of the park and I don't understand why you'd like to change.

Marcel: I like it, too, but Robert is moving out and I don't think I'll be able to pay the rent myself. You know, it was easier sharing the cost between the two of us.

Mandy: It's a pity. Anyway, what about the people upstairs? Do they still listen to loud music at night?

Marcel: No, it was never at night, and besides, I don't think it was that loud. When you live in a block of flats, you have to put up with other people's behaviour a lot.

Mandy: True. You know what? Perhaps I can help you find something new.

Marcel: Good idea.

Please remember that you can only use your mobile phones during the first five minutes of the performance. The actors have difficulty focusing when anyone in the audience uses flash photos. We'd like to remind you that you will have a chance to take photos or record a short film when they come out on stage after the show. Now, stay in your seats and enjoy the play.

Tekst 5

Many people in my family are teachers, and when I was in secondary school everyone felt that I should continue the family tradition. I didn't share that opinion and I wanted to do something else, but I wasn't really sure what. While I was reading something on the Internet the other day, I came across a report about education in Africa and I decided that one day I would go there and try to make a change. It wasn't easy to get to university, but luckily I had two good friends who helped me prepare for the exam.

Tekst 6

Man: I can see why you're upset, but there's really no reason to be so angry. It's only a small difference in the travel arrangements. You will just return to the country one day later.

Woman: To me, it isn't so small. My holiday at work ends on Wednesday, and I can't take another day off.

Man: We can always refund the whole cost of the trip or offer you another one, at a different time.

Woman: I've planned this holiday with my whole family, and they're really looking forward to visiting all the museums now, when there aren't so many tourists.

Man: I see. If you decide to reschedule your trip, we'll give you and your family free vouchers to the best restaurant in the city and we'll upgrade your tickets to business class.

Woman: It sounds very attractive, but I think I'll check with my boss again and get back to you at the end of the week.

Man: Of course, madam. I'm sure we'll find the best solution.
