What friends do we need?

- A When Aristotle was asked, in the 4th century BC, what defines a friend, he had no doubts. A friend is 'one soul inhabiting two bodies,' he said, adding: 'Without friends no one would choose to live, though he had all other goods.' In this century, it is a little more complicated. A startling discovery in the American Sociological Review found 25 per cent of Americans do not have a single friend. That is, nobody 'with whom to discuss matters important to them,' said the researchers. The average number of friends was two. Yet modern demands on our time can take a deep toll on friendships.
- B Two books aim to help us through the maze. Vital Friends: The People You Can't Afford to Live Without by Tom Rath, advises readers to evaluate the roles played by their friends, ensuring eight essential friendship types are represented. Rethinking Friendship: Hidden Solidarities Today by Liz Spencer and Ray Pahl looks at the different kinds of friendships in the internet age.
- C Rath is a New York Times bestselling author, and leads research and consulting at Gallup. He analysed more than five million interviews to try to define what Plato said he never could: what is friendship? The result is Vital Friends, and it reaches startling conclusions. If you ask people why they became homeless, why their marriage failed or why they overeat, he says, they do not blame it on poverty or mobility; they blame it on a lack of friendships. If your best friend eats healthily, he discovered, you are five times more likely to have a healthy diet yourself. His interviewees rated friendship as being more than five times as important as physical intimacy in the success of a marriage. He also found patients with heart disease are twice as likely to die if they do not have three or four close social connections.

D Ray Pahl's Rethinking Friendship is based on in-depth interviews conducted over seven years. He finds the quality of our friendships has a huge influence on the amount of satisfaction we draw from life. 'Individuals with no real friends at work have only a one in 12 chance of feeling engaged in their job,' he says. But the quantity, as well as the quality of friends, does matter. Some people can have three or four close friends and be very happy, he believes. Others more extrovert prefer to have 10 or 15. But he is certain you need to have more than one friend to be satisfied in life. 'It is a very common mistake to expect one close friend to provide everything you need,' he says. 'And it can cause a lot of problems.'

E Dr Angela Carter, an occupational psychiatrist from Sheffield University, says: 'We are social animals. We need friends to hold a mirror up to us and show us what our behaviour looks like. They provide companionship and support, but the most important thing friends do is help us to work out who we are. Families cannot do that in the same way.' She has found people can struggle to find the friends that they need. 'We need to be quite strategic in our friendships. People think friends turn up from nowhere, and they grumble when they don't have any. You need to think, "What do I need from friends and am I being a good friend in return?"'

F In researching Rethinking Friendship, Pahl found little cause for the notion that society is becoming atomised and selfish. 'Friendship takes such a variety of different forms,' he says. 'I don't think people have fewer friends now. What is new is that in the past 50 years we have become more and more used to choosing friends, rather than accepting them as given.'

G Both authors did not find transient communities are all about networking and getting on. 'As people have learned to be consumers, maybe they have also learned to make choices among their friends,' says Pahl. 'But when people think about their close friends, those relationships are deep and trusting, not exploitative or self-seeking. People are probably loyal and decent, against what is cynically regarded as the current of the age.'

H So how many friends can one person reasonably support? 'I don't think it is useful or meaningful to put a number on it,' says Dr Carter. 'Psychologists use the term 'affiliation need', and society tells us we have a lot of it. In truth, some people need a lot of friends, others few.' 'It is fair to say, people with a more diverse and mixed group of friends have a more robust defence against the way the world works,' says Pahl. 'I don't want to be prescriptive, or the government will start saying that we need a Ministry of Mates. But if you can provide the circumstances for a more friendly society, then society will be happier and healthier.'

1 Match the verbs of movement in the box to the correct image 1–9.

declined steadily	hit a low	fluctuated
fell and then levelled off	rose gradually	hit a peak
remained flat	dipped	plummeted soared

Example:

2 For sentences 1–6 below, underline the correct word in italics.

- Levels of unemployment declined/a decline rapidly.
- There was a rise/rise in levels of unemployment.
- The year 2000 saw a drop/drop in high street purchases.
- In 2015, household spending had dip/a dip.
- The number of users fell/a fall by 15%.
- Between 1970 and 1975 the numbers simply fluctuated/a fluctuation.

3 Rewrite sentences 1–3 below with nouns instead of verbs.

Example:

The proportion of students using social media dropped dramatically in January.
 There was a dramatic drop in the proportion of students using social media in January.

- The sales of mobile phones fluctuated in the first few months of last year.
- The number of people studying engineering gradually declined until 2010.
- Household income has risen steadily since 2010.

- 4 Look at the following Task 1 question and then answer questions 1–3 below.

WRITING TASK 1

You should spend about 20 minutes on this task.

The bar chart below shows social media use in Americans aged 12–24 between 2014 and 2015.

Summarise the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

Write at least 150 words.

Social Media Usage Among American Youth (12–24)

- 1 What does the bar chart show?
  - 2 How long should you spend on the task?
  - 3 What's the minimum you should write?
- 5 Complete the model answer using the correct form of the words in the box.

remain flat decline (x2) dip soar rise (x2) plummet change

The bar chart shows changes in social media use for 12–24-year-old Americans between 2014 and 2015. Three of the social media platforms 1 _____ in terms of their usage while two of the sites 2 _____. The biggest 3 _____ is in the number of people using Tumblr, which 4 _____ from 22% of 12–24 years olds to just 15%. While Facebook 5 _____ by a similar amount, it still holds the position of the most popular social media site. The final site to show a fall in number of users from this demographic was Twitter. Here the fall was less dramatic, with the percentage 6 _____ by just 4%.

In contrast the number of users on Instagram and Snapchat 7 _____ during this time period. While Instagram went up steadily from 53% to 59%, Snapchat 8 _____ by 11% from 46% to 57%, nearly overtaking Instagram as the second most popular social media site. The final site shown in the bar chart, Vine, 9 _____ during this time period. In conclusion, social media usage is incredibly popular with 12–24-year-old Americans. However, the popularity of each site is generally changing.

- 6 Look again at the model answer and answer questions a–c below.
- a Which sentence summarises the data?
  - b Which change in social media use was the biggest?
  - c Which change was the smallest?
