Despite it being the day of my fourteenth birthday, I came back from school in my usual despondent mood, hungry and tired. However, I was in for a surprise. Unlike before, that day my grandfather welcomed me at the door, looking somewhat bizarrely excited about something and telling me to shut my eyes because there was an unusual gift awaiting me in my room. I wasn't big on surprises, so my heart started pounding and I began to imagine what it could conceivably be. He hurried me into taking my shoes off and said something about the series I was watching at the time called My Life as a Robot Girl.

'Ta-da,' he said proudly as we entered my room. 'Open your eyes, and meet your new friend,' he added. So I did, and to my utter amazement, I saw a girl robot, beckoning to me and encouraging me to play with her. Seeing my confusion, my grandfather explained that Tilly was a social robot, equipped with an AI-powered personality that would allow her to chat with me, that she would recognise my face and my voice once we made friends, respond to my questions, show emotions and empathy for all my problems, 'though not sort them out,' he added. 'Would she be able to do my homework?' I wondered.

Anyway, I approached my new toy very carefully. My grandfather nudged me to talk to her, but I just stared at it or ... her. I wasn't sure that in my free time I really wanted to mess about with a robot rather than my friends. The machine smiled at me and asked what games I was keen on playing. I said I fancied playing Pictionary. I could see Tilly was gathering her thoughts and said 'OK. Let's have a shot at it' and started drawing something on the screen which was part of her body. 'Ready. Can you guess what saying I have just illustrated?' I did. Then, it was my turn. She guessed too. We carried on for a while. However, I started losing badly and was getting furious.

My grandfather watched me play and it felt like he was having the time of his life. Finally, he could prove his point that humans should only play with humans to be happy. Strangely, his smile was getting more and more sinister. Tilly, in the meantime, was celebrating her victories, and I felt the world was conspiring against me. At that moment I woke up ... and saw my grandfather with a pack of UNO cards wanting to know if I could give him a game or two before I started on another episode of My Life as a Robot Girl.

- 3 CD 1.06 Read the two texts and answer the questions.

2 What attitude to playing and interacting with robots do these texts present?

Text 2

Artificial Intelligence is no longer just a fad some people thought years back it might be. It's omnipresent, and it has definitely become part and parcel of the world of gaming, robotics, and fairly recently, toys for children. Engineers have been working for years now to make robots perform the same tasks as kids can do, such as building with blocks, drawing or doing puzzles. The goal that they have been pursuing is to enable robots to adapt to new situations by developing algorithms to help them learn from past experiences and other robots too. One day, researchers are likely to create 'lifelong robotics systems' in which robots will be able to analyse, like humans, their previous successes and mistakes. Cutting-edge technology like that will make it possible for people and robots to play with each other as equals. We can already see countless games and toys where children interact with AI. There are, of course, challenges too. While teaching a computer to win an online game is relatively easy, programming it to do a physical action seems much harder. Virtual space has no limits, so AI-powered 'players' can accomplish a lot. In physical space they find it hard to navigate, move fast or manipulate objects. As a result, children will still crave the company of other children to play hide-and-seek or tag. Just as well, say psychologists who sound concerned about the possible negative effect of such pursuits on a child's emotional and social development. Children may not be able to develop empathy as relationships with programmed robots will most probably remain very artificial, and as such will not teach them how to build connections with people, which traditional games do. One way or another, technology will help revolutionise what we do and how we do it. It's just going to be our choice to make: play cards with a humanoid or a classmate, go on a scavenger hunt in a real forest or put on a pair of VR glasses and experience it virtually.

6 Complete the email below with the information from Texts 1 and 2 in exercise 3. Write between one and four words in each gap.

Hi Liz,

Today in our English class we were discussing Artificial Intelligence and how it may influence the future of leisure activities. There were two texts. The first one told a fictional story of a boy ¹whose grandfather wanted to surprise him and bought him an AI-powered robot friend. The grandson ²hesitated / was apprehensive when the grandfather encouraged him to play with the robot sitting at his desk, which I totally understand. A little creepy, isn't it? In the end, it turned out to be only a dream, but I guess it's a ³matter/question of time when robots like these inhabit our home, which is what the other text was about. It also said that for now robots aren't ⁴capable of moving about very fast, so kids still need other kids to play hide-and-seek with. Do you think it'd be fun to go skiing or something with a robot rather than a friend? I don't know... Psychologists aren't that sure either. They say that it ⁵might/may/will be difficult/tough/problematic for children to engage with human beings once they get used to robots. Anyway, I'll send you the links to the articles. They might be good for our project. Take care,

Jan

Niedawno przeczytałeś/przeczytałaś* artykuł, którego autor uważa, że młodzież nie potrafi spędzać wolnego czasu w twórczy sposób i woli spędzać go przed komputerem. Napisz list do redakcji, w którym nie zgodzisz się z autorem tego artykułu. 1) Opisz swój ulubiony sposób spędzania wolnego czasu i 2) wyjaśnij, jakie korzyści płyną z przedstawionych przez Ciebie aktywności.

Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing in response to the article which claims that young people do not spend their free time in a creative way, but instead sit in front of their computers all day. I believe this is a common misconception, and I would like to offer my point of view on the matter. I have been blogging about fashion and jewellery-making for the last two years. My blog entries include articles about current fashions as well as photographs of outfits, which I take myself. Moreover, I design my own necklaces and record YouTube tutorials to help others create accessories. Although I spend most of my free time in front of the computer, I consider this activity a creative form of recreation.

It goes without saying that having a hobby like this is beneficial for more than one reason. Firstly, it helps stimulate imagination and creativity. Furthermore, it allows me to keep in touch with my friends. I often post links to my blog articles so that everybody can stay up-to-date with my publications. Most of my friends enjoy reading my articles, which gives me great pleasure. In conclusion, let me emphasise the fact that teenagers often spend their free time in a creative way even if they sit at a computer. Their activities may include anything from blogging to creating websites. As far as I am concerned, such leisure activities are as creative as painting or taking photographs.

Yours faithfully,
XYZ

1 Work in pairs and answer the questions.

- 1 How much free time do you actually have? Is it enough? How do you spend it?
- 2 Do you ever feel bored? When? Why?

2 LANGUAGE IN CONTEXT Read the text. Why is boredom essential to our lives?

Boredom helps us reflect on our lives and become more creative and effective in what we do.

No one enjoys being bored, and most of us want to fill our every waking moment with activity. We believe that the more we do with our time, the more we will manage to achieve. However, contrary to popular belief, what causes us to develop our full potential is, quite surprisingly, boredom. When we continue to pack our calendars, we fail to find the time we need to think more creatively, and we miss having the opportunity to reflect on what we are doing. The constant busyness and lack of time make us perform less effectively because we are more easily distracted. So, the best piece of advice for you may actually be to practise doing less and continue choosing activities to say 'no' to. Having quality leisure time allows people to relax and enables them to do some thinking!

3 ANALYSE Find sentences in the text in exercise 2 which match the patterns in the table below.

1 verb + -ing		4 verb + object + infinitive
2 verb + infinitive		5 verb + infinitive or -ing (little or no change in meaning)
3 verb + object + bare infinitive

4 Match the verbs below with one of the patterns in exercise 3. Sometimes more than one answer is correct.

help feel like persuade spend your time volunteer begin arrange start motivate risk remind intend bother prefer ask let offer encourage fancy happen avoid seem aim can't stand keep invite tend hope can't help

5 PRACTISE Choose the correct options to complete the sentences. Sometimes both options are correct. Then ask and answer the questions in pairs.

- 1 What do you fancy doing / to do after school today?
- 2 What makes you to feel / feel the most tired during the week? How do you cope with it?
- 3 Do you tend to take / taking too much on, or do you avoid to do / doing extra things? Why?
- 4 What motivates you to work / work harder at school?
- 5 Do you miss having / to have more time to see your friends? Why? / Why not?
- 6 What do you intend to do / doing at the weekend?

6 Translate the Polish parts of the sentences in brackets into English.

- 1 Most parents encourage their children to attend / to take part / participate in (zachęca swoje dzieci do uczęszczania na) various courses.
- 2 Doing nothing lets us stop / allows us to stop (pozwala się nam zatrzymać) and think more creatively.

- 6 I volunteered to take part in / participate in (zgłosiłem się na ochotnika do uczestnictwa w) this board game contest.

7 Complete the sentences with the correct form of the words in brackets. Add extra words where necessary.

- 1 You should try to avoid (do) too much in your free time if you want (rest) properly.
- 2 My father offer (give / I) a lift to the cinema, but I feel like (go) by bus.

- 4 Luke practise (play) the piano every day because he aim (become) a professional musician in the future.
- 5 I keep (wave) to my friend, but she seem (not / notice) me.

! Watch out

With verbs of perception (e.g. see, watch, hear, overhear, listen) two patterns are possible:

verb + object + -ing or verb + object + bare infinitive.

- 1 I saw Steve and Fiona playing tennis, but I don't know who won. (You saw only part of the action.)
- 2 I saw Steve and Fiona play tennis. Both of them were brilliant. (You saw the whole match.)

8 Complete the sentences with the correct form of the verbs in brackets. Give reasons to support your answers.

Dear Sir,
 I'm writing in response to the article which ²says that youth ³don't enjoy playing board games. I think this is a ⁴completely wrong idea. ⁵I think that playing board games is popular among young people. ⁶Also, this ⁷way of spending free time enables them to socialise. ⁸People often think that teenagers spend their free time in front of their computers, but let me ⁹point out that this is not always the case. ¹⁰Best wishes,
 XYZ

WEDDING PLANNERS

Getting married is said to be one of the most stressful life events, comparable to being fired from a job and only slightly less stressful than losing a close ¹relative (relation), like a sibling. What can you do to mitigate stress during wedding planning? Hiring a professional planner can be ²beneficial (benefit) to any couple thinking of tying the knot.

Some people might be a bit ³apprehensive (apprehend) about contracting a wedding planner, especially if they are on a limited budget. Remember that planning a wedding is all about making choices, and you will need to make ⁴countless (count) decisions before and on your wedding day. Professional wedding planners are worth every penny as they can help you avoid the mistakes made by hundreds of other couples before. They will send out the ⁵invitations (invite) and confirm how many guests will be attending the ceremony so that you don't have to worry about such mundane tasks. They will also keep your agenda and remind you of all important ⁶appointments (appoint) so you will never forget to attend a food tasting to choose the flavour of your three-tier wedding cake. But most importantly, they will be there if anything goes wrong.

describing levels of performance

- 1 Read the three texts below. Which of the three sports would you be interested in seeing? Why?

1 And that is... point and match! Maria Lara is the winner! Maria was in great form again today against Kelly Tims. She was in the lead from start to finish, and there was no doubt that the victory would be hers. She has been on an amazing winning streak. In fact, she's almost undefeated this season with twelve wins in a row. She is definitely a future champion.

2 Well, that was quite a race! Unfortunately, Jason Lee suffered a loss today in the freestyle. He started out strong but fell behind in the third lap and never managed to catch up. Sadly, Jason has been on a losing streak this month. In fact, coming in second in the race in Brighton was the best he has done in a long while.

3 This match between the Standers and the Rakers looks like a fight to the finish! With three goals on each side, it could easily end in a draw if neither team scores. Now the ball is in centre field, and with the teams neck and neck, the fans are going crazy! Johnson shoots ... and no goal! It looks like the Standers and the Rakers are an equal match, since this is their third tie game this season.

lead victories winning undefeated loss fall second neck and neck match

Generally, athletes have very short careers. They can be ¹undefeated at the age of 25, never losing a contest – then they suddenly suffer a serious ²loss, or just come in ³second in a type of contest where they are normally first, and it looks like the beginning of the end. Some athletes want to keep trying. Maybe they were in the ⁴lead for so long that they can't accept that their ⁵winning streak might be at an end. 'When you were an equal ⁶match for a competitor, and then suddenly you ⁷fall behind, it's hard to accept,' one athlete says. Another retired athlete adds: 'We all have to stop at some point. Just remember your ⁸victories and high points, and remind yourself that you were once ⁹neck and neck with the greatest athletes in your sport. It's not failure – it's just retirement!'

- Figure-skater Kristen Lane was practising, as usual, early yesterday morning when ...
- ... when she heard the news ...
- I had never skated at all before ...
- ... I had not been skating long enough.

Exercise 8

Example answers:

They had been playing football for an hour when one of the players knocked another player down. The referee decided that the standing player had done something wrong, so he gave him a red card. The man with the penalty had to sit down for the rest of the game, and he felt very upset.

The tennis player had been playing well when she suddenly started losing. Perhaps she had been on a winning streak, and this was her first loss in a while, because she looks very disappointed. After the match, I think she went to the dressing room and tried to calm herself down. Her coach encouraged her and gave her some tips to help her play better.

The speed skaters had been competing in a race, possibly during a championship. They had been running very fast when they crashed and fell down. Luckily, I don't think they got seriously injured. However, I think they were not able to catch up with other competitors and probably lost the race.

1	used to + verb
2	would + verb
3	present simple with always, every day, often etc.
4	be + always + -ing form (past and present)

- Which structures do we use to talk about present habits?
- Which structures do we use to talk about past habits?
- Which structures do we use to talk about annoying habits?

! Tip

- We use would to talk about habitual past actions, but not states.
I would go to the gym every morning.
NOT I would feel tired when I didn't exercise regularly.
- We don't normally use would in negatives and questions with this meaning.
I wouldn't go to the gym every morning. (= I don't think it's a good idea.)

4 PRACTISE Complete the blog entry with the correct form of the words in brackets. Use the correct structures to talk about habits. There may be more than one possible answer.

When I was a child, I ¹would get / used to get / got (get) plenty of exercise every day without even trying. I ²was always running around / would always run around / always ran around (always / run around) with my friends, and we ³would play / used to play / played (play) football or basketball nearly every day. But as a grown-up, I have much less free time, so I have to make an effort to keep in shape. With this in mind, I ⁴exercise (exercise) at the local gym once a week, and I ⁵play (play) tennis with friends two evenings a month. I ⁶didn't use to worry / didn't worry (not worry) about what I ate as a child either. Now I ⁷choose (choose) the healthiest foods I can find, and I ⁸never eat (never / eat) more than I need to just feel full. I admit that I ⁹used to believe / believed (believe) that I would stay healthy forever without any effort, but nowadays I ¹⁰work out (work out) regularly because I realise that I was wrong. Consistency and dedication are the key to remaining strong and healthy – it doesn't happen by itself!

FOULING

MATCH-FIXING

DOPING

1 Work in pairs and describe the pictures. Answer the questions below.

- What do you think makes athletes or sports officials behave in a dishonest way?
- Can you give an example of an athlete or a team who have been found guilty of such dishonesty? What happened? Were they punished? If so, how?

2 CD 1.15 Read the texts (A–C). Match them with the correct headlines below. There are two extra headlines.

- PAYING THE HIGHEST PRICE
- EXPOSING A CHEAT BY ACCIDENT
- GIVING THE DRUGS UP
- BUYING SUCCESS
- COMPETING AGAINST THE BEST

3 Decide if the following statements refer to one, two or all three athletes described in texts A–C. Match each statement (1–6) with one, two or all three texts.

- This person cheated to feel more self-confident.
- This person suffered the consequences of their dishonest behaviour.
- This person's actions provoked a strong reaction from the sports officials.
- This person blamed someone else for what had happened.
- This person's case confirmed what had already been suspected.
- This person wanted to change the situation they were in.

A

In July 2003, Taylor Hooton, a promising baseball player, committed suicide. He had just turned seventeen and had a bright future ahead of him. His parents were proud of their son's hard training regime and his achievements. However, what they did not suspect was that Taylor had turned to performance-enhancing drugs to improve his muscle strength and self-esteem. Unfortunately, the drugs made Taylor suffer from terrible mood swings. When he was unable to cope with his moods, he decided to quit taking the drugs, and that's probably what killed him. Taylor did not realise that when you give up drugs suddenly, you may become severely depressed. This case may be extreme, but it discloses a worrying trend: the use of steroids among young people, who take muscle-building pills not only to boost their athletic performance but also to gain self-confidence and sculpted bodies.

B

When Liliya Shobukhova, the second fastest female marathon runner in history, admitted to doping and bribery, the world of athletics was shocked. The disbelief was even greater when the investigation into the scandal revealed that the athlete had been blackmailed by three top Russian IAAF officials who, in exchange for the money, covered up the irregularities in her biological passport (an electronic record in which the results of doping tests are compared in order to detect illegal substances). When, in 2014, she refused to pay, she was banned from competitive events for life. This is what made her come clean. Consequently, she was stripped of all her medals and titles. However, there was a positive outcome: the scandal exposed the enormous scale of doping and corruption in Russian athletics and made the World Anti-Doping Agency take tough action against it.

C

In 2016, Belgian cyclist Femke Van den Driessche became famous for all the wrong reasons. She was competing in a top-level under-23 race when she was forced to withdraw from the competition because of a mechanical problem. Her bike was examined, and it turned out that it had been fitted with a hidden motor. The 19-year-old claimed she had no idea about it and that the bike must have been mistakenly swapped by her team mechanic before the competition. The anti-doping authorities admitted they had speculated mechanical doping was on the increase and that this discovery would prompt them to run more checks on bikes. As for the cyclist herself, she was found guilty, suspended from further races and fined, but will this bring back faith in the sport of cycling, which is already damaged by cheating scandals?

NOT EVERYBODY IS INTO SPORTS, AND NOT EVERYBODY IS A ¹devoted SPORTS FAN.

There are millions of people in this world to whom sports competitions mean next to nothing and who remain ²indifferent to what's going on in the world of sport. Some of these anti-fans are part of a community called Sports Suck and run their own website by the same name. They call themselves reasonable people who believe in ³fitness but explain that they disapprove of competitive sport. They have been ⁴protesting against sports mania for some time now and claim to have gained plenty of supporters. Indeed, their website is full of letters and articles from individuals who criticise ⁵unhealthy competition in professional sport as well as badly-behaved sports fans. The website also ⁶enables the visitors to access a variety of interesting articles supporting their cause. They may exaggerate a bit, but they certainly offer a fresh perspective on sport.

- 2 Read the writing task and the example article below. Find two elements of the task and answer the questions (1–2). Task elements: underlined below

- Who does the writer describe in the first part of the article? What happened to this person?
- What advice does the author give to people practising competitive sport?

Have you ever thought that being utterly determined to accomplish something may not be a positive thing? How about competitive sports? Shouldn't they be viewed in terms of the danger they pose to one's health? My brother Julian had never been into sports until the day he announced that he had decided to enter an Ironman competition. He explained that he craved challenge. Initially, he seemed sensible about it, but in no time, he did nothing but train. The moment he finished in the pool, he would go for a run and a bike ride. By the time anyone realised it, he had become obsessed. Eventually, his body could not cope with this demanding exercise regime, and

- NO PAIN, NO GAIN
- TO TRAIN OR NOT TO TRAIN

- strong warning or a piece of advice
- question directed at the readers
- idiomatic expression
- play on words
- paraphrase of famous words/quotations

- 5 Work in pairs. Imagine you are going to write the following articles. What titles would you suggest for each one? Use some of the techniques from exercise 4.

- an article about the attraction of extreme sports and reasons why people take them up
- an article about a famous sportsperson's achievements and his/her influence on young people one day he collapsed in the gym. It turned out that he was suffering from a heart condition. What happened to Julian should act as a warning to others who push their bodies to the limit. First and foremost, if you are interested in a competitive sport, you should undergo medical tests to ensure that your body can handle it. Apart from this, it is recommended that you train under professional supervision and consult a dietitian to advise you on a healthy diet. Moreover, you ought to take frequent breaks to let your body rest. All in all, my brother's story shows that overdoing exercise may do more harm than good, and it seems vital to consider its negative effects before it is too late.

I have had been into sports since I could remember, so when I turned 11, I decided to focus on that and train hard to become a football player. My parents agreed to send me to football practice once a week, but most of the time, I just should have played would just play / just played / was just playing in a field outside my house hoping against hope that someone would spot my talent. Surprisingly, my dreams come came true one day! During one of the football practices, the coach of the local team approached me and invited me to a professional training session! I must have done really well because they asked me to come again. After that, I was coming would come / came every day, and I did my best to impress my coach. Things just got better from then on. Now I'm playing for a top team in the English Premier League.

GOOD NEWS FOR TEENAGERS – EXERCISE CAN BE BAD FOR YOU

One of the few modern articles of faith is our belief in exercise. Even if you don't do it, you know what its powers are. Exercise makes you thinner, more energetic and happier. We are constantly urged to do more of it – especially our children, who will otherwise spend their whole lives lying on the sofa sending texts. The NHS advises that children aged 5 to 18 should do at least an hour a day of mixed-intensity aerobic exercise, as well as muscle-strengthening activities such as sit-ups.

Now, I don't doubt that a bit of running around is good for children. I dutifully drag mine to the playground most days, for an hour of moaning and shivering in their welly boots. If nothing else, it makes us all doubly happy to get home. But an actual exercise regime? Isn't that the price you pay for being a grown-up? Pumping weights seems to me a poor use of the time that could be spent battling superheroes, drawing on the carpet, or – best by far – reading.

When I was little, in the seventies, no British person of any age knowingly took exercise. They might have done it unwittingly – while going for a nice walk, say – but the idea of exercise as a virtuous activity in its own right had yet to cross the Atlantic.

The first time I ever saw someone jogging, I was driving through Richmond Park with my family. Dad pointed out of the window and said: 'What's that man running away from?' Mum said: 'Look at his tiny shorts!' We concluded that he must be either crazy or on the run from the police, so we didn't stop to help.

It was another decade or so before men in tiny shorts became a common sight on British streets. In the meantime, apart from unavoidable movements (such as walking to school) and occasional fun ones (sledding down the stairs in a sleeping bag), I hardly used my body at all. Mostly, I was either lying down to read, or sitting up to eat. This doesn't seem to have done much physical damage. And I still believe that the habit of reading was – and is – at least as good for my mental health as any exercise regime.

The good news is, science may be coming round to this view. Indeed, a report published by Swiss researchers claims that too much exercise can make teenagers miserable. The distinguished paediatrician Joan-Charles Suris found that a moderate amount of physical activity did make them happier. But those who were exercising for two or more hours a day reported lower levels of emotional well-being.

Dr Suris argues that doctors may be putting too much faith in the magic of exercise. 'As paediatricians, we ask children if they practise sport. If they say, 'Yes, three hours a day,' we think, 'Great – this guy has no problems.' Maybe, though, we should ask, 'Are you happy? Would you prefer to read a book?'

Less jogging, more novels: I like this doctor's orders.

- 1 It is believed that physical activity can help you feel content and bursting with energy.
- 2 The author implies that her children are unwilling to go to the playground because it's cold and wet.
- 3 The idea that people could work out deliberately originated in the US / the United States.
- 4 When the author's father saw the first jogger, he thought that someone was chasing the man.
- 5 Some ten years later, people in the UK got/were used to seeing runners in tiny shorts.
- 6 The report published in Switzerland suggests that young people who spend too much time exercising are likely to feel unhappy.
- 7 According to Dr Suris, we cannot measure a level of children's happiness by checking how much time they spend exercising / how much they exercise / how physically active they are.

Rozmawiasz z jednym z uczniów / jedną z uczennic o pomysły dyrekcji szkoły, która postanowiła rozszerzyć ofertę sportową. W zależności od tego, jak rozmowa się potoczy, spróbuj włączyć do niej wszystkie/wybrane punkty:

- poproś ucznia A o dokładniejsze wyjaśnienie jakiejś kwestii,
- grzecznie nie zgódź się z uczniem A tak, aby musiał podać kolejne argumenty lub zaproponować inne rozwiązanie,
- zapytaj ucznia A, czy kiedykolwiek brał udział w zajęciach danego typu,
- przypomnij uczniowi A, że szkoła dysponuje ograniczonym budżetem na zakup sprzętu,
- zasugeruj, że gdy jest dobra pogoda, zajęcia mogłyby odbywać się na zewnątrz.
