1 Which two countries is Niagara Falls in?

_____

2 How high is Niagara Falls?

_____

3 How many people visit each year?

_____

B Read the first paragraph of the article to check your predictions from Exercise A.

C READ FOR DETAIL Answer the questions.

1 Why do so many people visit Niagara Falls every year?

_____

2 Why is the American side of the falls less popular with tourists?

_____

3 What has been the effect of less tourism for the American side?

_____

4 What is the reason for the large number of gift shops on the Canadian side?

_____

5 Why is the writer angry that people were taking photographs at the falls?

_____

D REFLECT Think about your answers to these questions.

1 Have you ever been disappointed by a popular tourist attraction?

2 Do you think having a high number of tourists can ever be a good thing?

Are tourists destroying the world?

Niagara Falls, on the border between Canada and the USA, is a magnificent natural wonder. It is 53 metres high and a massive 670 metres wide. All of which have made it one of the most popular tourist destinations in the world. Over 30 million people visit every year and the number of visitors is likely to increase.

The American side of the falls is not as impressive as the Canadian side. As a result, it is rarely visited and because of this it hasn't changed too much over the years. However, the Canadian side of the falls could not be more different. The huge number of tourists means that there is money to be made. This has led to many shops and museums selling poor-quality souvenirs around the area and overpriced restaurants serving terrible food are everywhere.

When I visited last March, I was so disappointed. Most of the time all that I could see were people taking selfies with the falls in the background. This means that no one seemed to appreciate the amazing natural beauty right in front of them. It was not at all what I'd imagined.

Next year, I'm going on a trip up the River Amazon through the rainforest. Hopefully in the middle of nowhere, I will be safe from people posing with their phones.

How are things? I'm so nervous about starting a different university next month. Everyone there knows each other already and I'll be the only new person. Have you got any advice?

Thanks,
Michelle

TO: Michelle

FROM: Becky

SUBJECT: RE: Any tips?

Hey Michelle!

First of all, it's important not to worry too much. I'm really confident and even I was nervous in my first week, so it's completely normal.

If I <sup>1</sup> _____ you, I would join a few clubs and societies. You're good at sport, so why not try to get on a team? It's a good <sup>2</sup> _____ to try a few different things so you meet different types of people.

Maybe you could join a drama or musical group too.

Make <sup>3</sup> _____ you smile and chat to people when you can. Going out is a <sup>4</sup> _____ – you can't meet new people if you sit in your bedroom all day.

Finally, you <sup>5</sup> _____ suggest studying together with people on your course. It's a good way to connect to people while getting your work done.

I hope that helps!

Becky

C Complete Becky's email with the words in the box.

idea must should sure were

D Correct the mistakes.

- 1 You really ought go out every evening.

- 2 I recommend telling to your teacher.

- 3 He really must to visit the gallery when he's there.

- 4 I'd suggest you to take the bus.

WRITING PRACTICE

A PREPARE Imagine your friend is starting a new job or college and he/she is feeling nervous. Make a note of three or four pieces of advice you would give him/her.

B WRITE Write your email in 100–150 words. Use your ideas from Exercise A.

2 SA: Can I help or are you just looking?

C: Well, both really. I'm looking for now but it's quite likely we'll get my mother one of these soon. She's finding it more and more difficult to walk and she needs to get out and about.

SA: Well, yes, of course. That's what these are for. They give people some independence.

C: And is the price on this one typical? I mean 4000 euros is quite a lot.

SA: This is probably the best vehicle we do. It has a top speed of twelve kilometres per hour.

C: Mm, that's quite fast, isn't it? My mother was never a very confident driver. I don't think it's the one for her.

3 Wo: Hello, hello, hi, is that Marion? Look, we really love the apartment but it's very hot. We've got all the windows open but ... Yes, we knew there was no air-con, but we expected something to keep the place a bit cooler. ... I mean the temperature's 36 today. No, there isn't one at all. We've checked all the rooms and all the cupboards. OK, that would be very helpful. Do you think you could bring one fan for the living room and one for the bedroom? OK, I guess one will have to be enough. We'll take it down to the bedroom when we go to bed. How long will it be before you can come around? Really? We wanted to go down to the beach. We don't really want to wait in all afternoon. OK, that's fine, we'll aim to be back here by five and you can give it to us then. Great, thanks.

Lesson 11.5, Listening, Exercise B

11.4 J = Jim S = Simone

J: Did I ever tell you about what happened when I was in Libya? You know, when I was working out there years ago?

S: No, I don't think so. Why? What happened?

J: On one of our days off, we drove out to a desert town with a couple of the local guys from work. They wanted to show us some sights. Anyway, we all got out of the truck and we were walking around. Suddenly, we saw this huge cloud of dust in the distance. It was a brown-yellow colour. It was clearly coming our way.

S: So, what did you do?

J: The guys we were with started shouting. They told us to run back to the truck, which was about five minutes away. By this time, we could hear the wind and started to feel it, too.

S: It sounds really scary. What happened next?

J: We got about halfway back to the truck and the wind was really strong. I could feel the sand sticking to my face. It was difficult to run as fast as I wanted to. All of the other guys took off their shirts and used them to cover their faces ... you know, to protect their eyes and make sure they didn't breathe in the dust. So we did the same.

S: Oh, really? So did you get back to the truck safely in the end?

J: Yes, this one guy, Ali, managed to get back to the truck and opened the doors so we could jump straight in. It was only when I was sitting back down that I realised I was covered in sand and dust – but I didn't mind, at least we were safe! None of us could stop coughing and my chest hurt. We all drank about a litre and a half of water.

Lesson 12.5, Listening, Exercise B

12.5 T = Tony E = Erica

E: Tony, I've been thinking. When we have the baby, shall we get rid of the TV? Shall we try living without one for a few years?

T: Why?

E: Because I don't want her ... or him ... to sit watching it all day. I mean, when we go to your sister's house, her children just seem to sit around all day watching cartoons.

T: Oh please! Sally lets them watch a bit more TV than usual when we visit because she wants to talk to us. You know how impossible it is to talk with kids running about.

E: Isn't that what kids are supposed to do ... run around?

T: Yes, of course ... most of the time. But a bit of TV doesn't hurt. Personally, I think a limited amount of TV is good for their imagination. They learn from watching TV just like they learn from reading books.

E: But they don't learn anything if they watch cartoons all day.

T: That's not true. Most programmes for very small kids are educational ... even the cartoons. And kids become interested in things they see their parents are watching, like football.

E: Well, sorry but I disagree. Look all I'm saying is let's have no TV while the baby's small. While its brain's developing.

T: But what about us? Won't we want to watch TV sometimes?

E: We've both got laptops and we listen to the news on the radio, anyway. Do we really need a TV in the living room?

T: What about us watching TV together ... when there's a good drama or something? Are we going to watch programmes on separate laptops in different rooms? That'll be a great start to family life!

E: Oh, come on! Anyway, we probably won't have time to watch TV when we've got a baby.

T: Ah, well, that's the benefit of having kids' channels on the TV. When we're washing clothes or making dinner, we can put the baby in front of the TV for half an hour. It's perfectly normal.

E: Now, that's my point exactly! One minute you say children learn from TV and the next you say you'll put the baby in front of it because you're busy. Parents always say their kids will only watch TV for an hour a day and then it becomes two and then three. They should sit and read with them, go out in the garden or bake a cake or something.

T: Well, yes ... perhaps that's a fair point.

E: So, you agree with me?

T: Well, I'm not sure about that, but let's say I'll think about it.

M: Oh, hi Tina. Yes, it's me but I can't hear you very clearly. Could you speak up?

T: Can you hear me now? I'm at King's Cross ...

M: Sorry, you've gone again. I'll try to call you. Hi Tina, is that better?

T: Not really, it's a terrible line. You keep breaking up.

M: Well, I'm just collecting the car. I'm in an underground car park. The signal isn't very good.

T: Why didn't you tell me that? Call me again when you're outside.

I think you should definitely join a gym rather than buy a fitness tracker, as most gyms offer a personal trainer service. Personal trainers are fitness experts and they'll be able to show you exercises to get fit quickly. It will also give you the motivation you need as they are very encouraging. Fitness trackers are good for monitoring how much exercise you are doing during the day, but I'm not sure how reliable they are.

You can also choose from a variety of exercise classes at the gym, which are fun and can teach you new skills. I started boxing classes last year and I absolutely love it!

Model answer

Hi Matthew,

Sorry to hear you are feeling so nervous about starting your new job. To be honest, though, it is completely normal to feel that way.

First of all, try to appear confident and friendly. Make sure you introduce yourself to everyone and try to remember their names.

Secondly, if I were you, I'd make sure I arrived at least ten minutes early for the first few weeks. This will give your boss the impression that you are reliable and hard-working. Finally, go to any company networking events. They are a good way to make connections and to find out more about the company.

I hope that helps.

Good luck!

James
