No one is really surprised at the fact that a great number of successful films have been based on best-selling novels. For decades, film directors 1.1..... interesting stories to put onto the big screen. In the history of the cinema there have been so 1.2..... adaptations of novels, both successful and unsuccessful, that it is practically impossible to list them all.

Interestingly, however, an opposite trend also began almost as early as the cinema itself. The situation 1.3..... a writer continues the story of a film in the form of a novel is called novelisation. Films that began a series of books based on the film script include such well-known titles as Star Wars, Star Trek, Alien or Shōgun, to mention just 1.4.....

It is true, however, that books based on movies are often believed to be badly written and critics have 1.5..... thought of novelisations as real literature.

What about you? Have you ever read a novel based on a film? What did you think of it?
