Shopping is emotional. It's true that many shoppers try to follow their carefully drafted shopping lists and strictly control their expenditure. Nonetheless, it would be practically impossible to find one who has not at least once given in to the 1.1 _____ to buy items outside their shopping list. A purchase of an unplanned product is known as impulse buying and is a widely recognised phenomenon, of which retailers have learnt to make good use. Quite often, buying things on impulse 1.2 _____ by the shoppers as a form of reward for going through the seemingly mundane shopping routine. And while rewarding yourself with small, inexpensive items is practically harmless, studies have shown that impulse shopping disrupts the normal decision-making process and might, in extreme cases, lead to 1.3 _____ and compulsive spending.

Curiously, recent research has shown that online shoppers are less likely to purchase products on impulse. Despite the wide range of products available and frequently far more attractive prices offered by online stores than retail ones, online consumers rarely treat 1.4 _____ to unplanned purchases. It seems that offering items within instant reach is still the best technique to make customers spend more than they planned.

2 Uzupełnij zdania 2.1–2.4, wykorzystując podane w nawiasach wyrazy w odpowiedniej formie. Nie należy zmieniać kolejności podanych wyrazów, natomiast trzeba – jeśli to konieczne – dodać inne wyrazy, by otrzymać logiczne i gramatycznie poprawne zdanie. Wymagana jest pełna poprawność ortograficzna wpisywanych fragmentów. (4 pkt)

Uwaga: w każdą lukę możesz wpisać maksymalnie sześć wyrazów, wliczając w to wyrazy już podane.
