

UNIT 1 >>> Use lists to help you organise your time

A It's exam week at school. On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday you have two exams each day (one in the morning and one in the afternoon). There is one hour after each morning exam for study. After school on each of those days you have swimming practice, photography club and a guitar lesson. On Saturday morning, you are taking your guitar exam. On Saturday afternoon you are going to a fancy dress party and you need to get a costume and a present.
Organise your week. It's now Tuesday.

B You and your twin sister are having an end-of-exams party. The party is on Saturday night and the theme is technology. Your mum and dad say it's OK to have a party but you have to organise everything (decorate and organise the house, get party food and drinks, do the music and the tidying up after the party). You and your sister still have to do homework and the usual household chores.
Organise your week. It's now Monday morning.

C Your cousin is coming to stay with you at the weekend. He/She usually brings homework and comes with you to clubs, but this weekend he/she wants to go to London Zoo. He/She arrives on Saturday morning at 9.00am. He/She always stays in your room but at the moment it's very messy because you are doing an art project for art club on Saturday afternoon. On Sundays you usually do homework and help Dad in the garden.
Organise your weekend. It's now Friday morning.

REFLECTION POINT

It's a good idea to make a list of things you need to do during the week, and then decide which ones are more important than others. Making a list helps you to organise your time and not get stressed.

UNIT 1 >>> Use lists to help you organise your time

A It's exam week at school. On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday you have two exams each day (one in the morning and one in the afternoon). There is one hour after each morning exam for study. After school on each of those days you have swimming practice, photography club and a guitar lesson. On Saturday morning, you are taking your guitar exam. On Saturday afternoon you are going to a fancy dress party and you need to get a costume and a present.
Organise your week. It's now Tuesday.

B You and your twin sister are having an end-of-exams party. The party is on Saturday night and the theme is technology. Your mum and dad say it's OK to have a party but you have to organise everything (decorate and organise the house, get party food and drinks, do the music and the tidying up after the party). You and your sister still have to do homework and the usual household chores.
Organise your week. It's now Monday morning.

C Your cousin is coming to stay with you at the weekend. He/She usually brings homework and comes with you to clubs, but this weekend he/she wants to go to London Zoo. He/She arrives on Saturday morning at 9.00am. He/She always stays in your room but at the moment it's very messy because you are doing an art project for art club on Saturday afternoon. On Sundays you usually do homework and help Dad in the garden.
Organise your weekend. It's now Friday morning.

REFLECTION POINT

It's a good idea to make a list of things you need to do during the week, and then decide which ones are more important than others. Making a list helps you to organise your time and not get stressed.