

It was Wednesday afternoon at a quarter to four. Millie and Sanjay were at school. Their science teacher, Mr Morgan, had a surprise for the class.

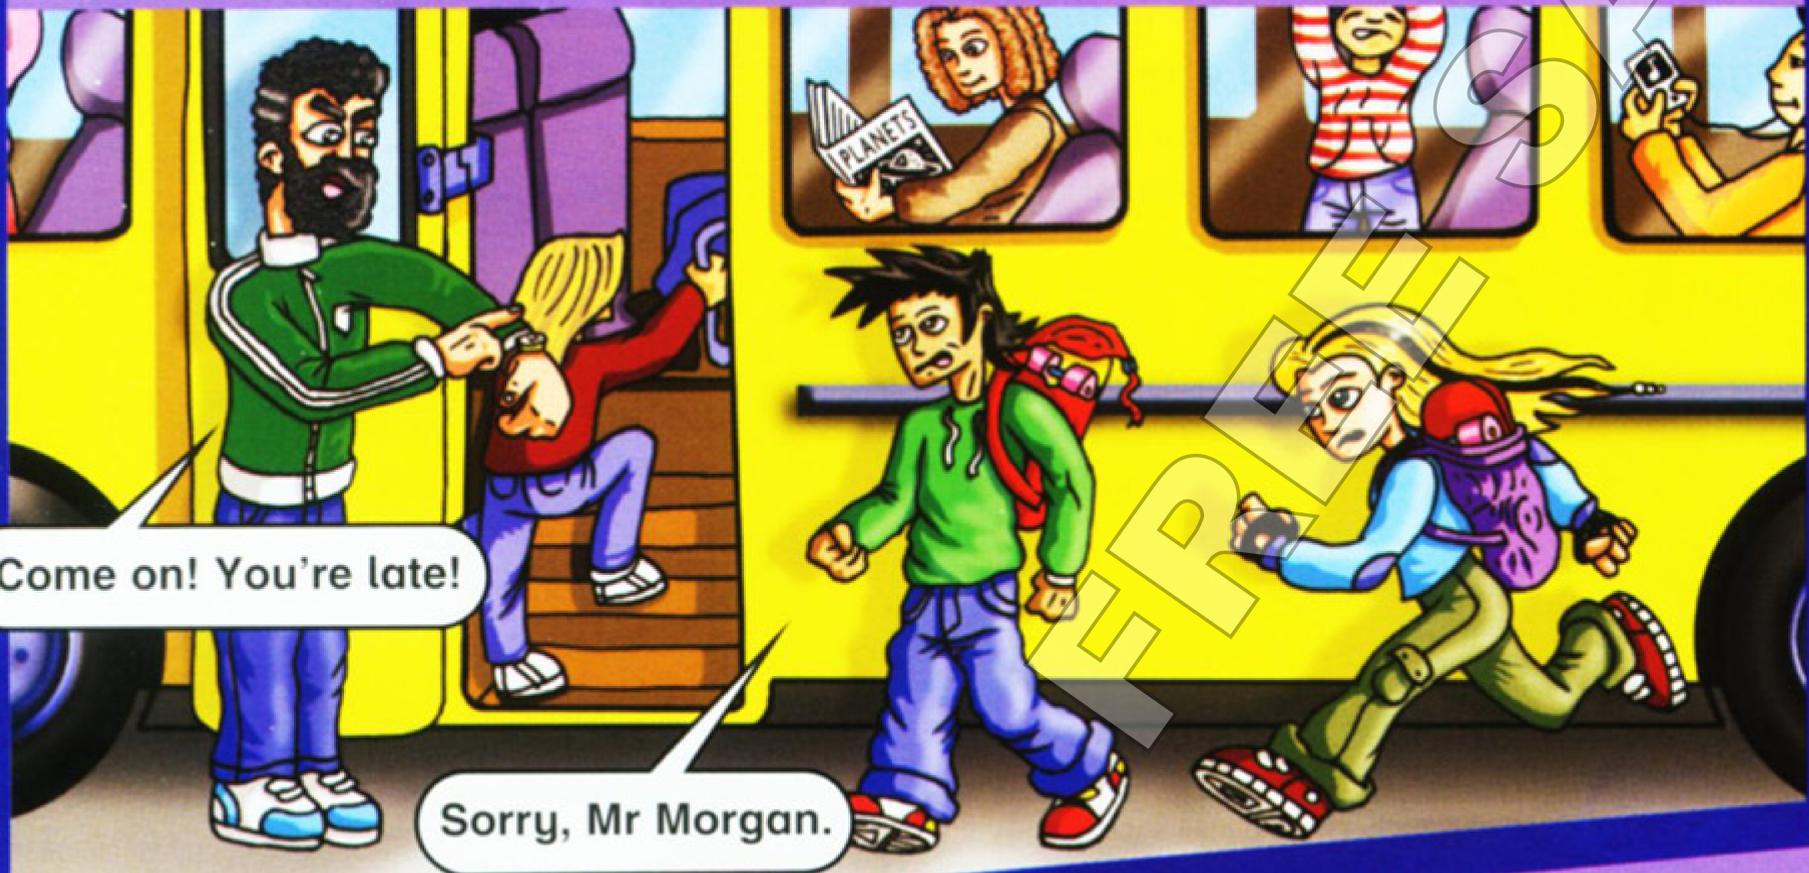

OK, kids. Next week there's a school trip. We're going to visit the science museum.

Oh no! The science museum is boring.

I want to go to the skate park. Skateboarding is cool!

A week later the pupils got on the school bus. They were very excited about the school trip. But Millie and Sanjay didn't want to go to the science museum. They wanted to go skateboarding. Mr Morgan didn't see the skateboards in their rucksacks.

The pupils arrived at the science museum at a quarter past ten. Their guide was Sabrina.

Listen please, everybody! This is Sabrina .

