AUDIOSKRYPT

Track 01

Text 1.

The 56th Grammy Awards Gala is now history. There were few surprises as to the winners. The statues are now in the hands of the artists who were tipped as most likely to receive them. What did come as a big surprise were the performances by Beyoncé and Daft Punk. The latter made everyone in the audience dance! Also the fact that the band appeared on stage together with Stevie Wonder – an artist who hasn't sung in concerts for years left most viewers in raptures. It was truly a night to remember!

Text 2.

Girl: What are you reading?

Boy: 'At Midnight' by Anthony Hard.

Girl: Is it any good?

Boy: It's brilliant. I really think it's the best novel he's ever written. And you know I've read most of his works.

Girl: Even the books for kids? I've read somewhere that it's how he started his career as a writer.

Boy: He did! And I've read some of them. But 'At midnight' is a real must-read. I believe he might even get some prize for it – he most definitely deserves it.

Text 3.

Quite recently the Centre for European Studies has published a report on students' mobility. Its aim was to find out if students at European universities are willing to leave their country to spend several months studying abroad. It turned out that Polish students do not study abroad as often as young people from other European countries do. The surveys have shown that the main reason for this is purely financial – students simply have no money to pay for their studies in a different country and they believe it would be too costly. Also, the report has revealed that students do not know foreign languages well enough. Finally, the low mobility of students might be due to their lack of interest in other cultures. Having analysed the main causes, the Centre is now setting out to find ways of alleviating the problem and finding solutions that could improve the students' mobility in the future.

It all happened a few years ago on my way to Leeds. At first everything seemed fine, I even thought I would get to my destination with some time to spare. At some point, however, the train simply stopped and didn't move for the next two hours. Can you believe that? I was just sitting in the middle of nowhere for what seemed like an eternity! I missed an important appointment and I've been using different means of transport ever since.

It all happened in January two years ago. Because of the severe weather conditions the train I took was delayed for six hours! Luckily, I wasn't in a hurry. But it doesn't change the fact that the journey was a nightmare. Why? Well, there was no heating! All the passengers were really angry and, what is worse, extremely cold! Fortunately, the staff wanted to make up for the inconvenience and we were all served free hot drinks to keep us warm. So in the end travellers did not complain so much.

2.3.

I admit I'm not a big fan of our railway. The last time I was travelling by train it broke down. Nobody knows why. Certainly not because of the weather – it was hot and sunny. OK, the whole situation was handled quite well. Within an hour there was a shuttle bus service to take us to our destination, but still a lot of people didn't manage to get to different meetings on time. Luckily, I wasn't one of them, but the whole situation was still pretty annoying.

Track 03

Cynthia: OK, tell me more about that place, Mike!

Mike: OK, it's in San Salvatore. It's kind of posh, quite spacious and it's got a breathtaking view of the coast. It resembles a castle, really.

Cynthia: So how can you afford it? It sounds kind of expensive.

Mike: Well, that's the problem, Cynthia. The rent is enormously high and half of it has to be paid in advance. But I'm just so determined to spend the summer there that I've come up with a plan. It may not be perfect, but if everything goes well, this time next month I'll be sitting on the balcony of the San Salvatore residence.

Cynthia: OK, mister. Give me the details.

Mike: You see, I've got only half the money I need for the rent. But the house is really big, so I can share it, right? So last week I put up an ad in the King's Herald. I wrote that I was looking for some company for a trip to Italy, someone to share the expenses, including the fares.

Cynthia: And ...?

Mike: So far two women replied. One of them is a daughter of a very wealthy businessman and wants to escape from her family. And the other one is an elderly lady who loves holidays but hates hotels, so a private residence is perfect for her. They both seemed like good company and it felt like we'd known each other for a long time just after a fifteen-minute talk!

Cynthia: I'll keep my fingers crossed for your plan, Mike. Hope you'll keep me posted.
